Rocking the budget-Bose look, iLuvs latest surround sound home theatre setup, the i1255,gives you the choice between DVD and iPod audio and video playback. Your $149.99 obviously doesnt get you a high-def powerhouse - outputs, for instance, are S-Video or standard AV- but theres flexibility a-plenty if youre not bothered with the 1080p revolution. The built-in dock is compatible with most of the more recent Apple models: the 6th generation iPods, iPod touch, iPod classic (80GB, 160

FAA approves flight simulator for your living room

In my book, HotSeat's Flight Sim Chassis just might be the worlds best, if not the most expensive flight simulator made for individual use. It has a tubular steel frame with six speakers and 5.1 Dolby Digital surround sound, with the center channel and subwoofer under the seat. The built-in custom PC makes gives you the feeling of flying

The Mac I want

I want a Mac. Not for any particular reason, I just want one, because I want one. Of course I do have other reasons: I want one, because I pride myself in being proficient and current in most common operating systems, and I have barely used OSX at all. I want one because I want to play with various other Apple technologies (like the iPhone SDK, which might actually get me interested in writing code again for the first time in years), and in many ways a Mac is the best way to do that (or in so
